

August 18, 2008

Announcing a Special Program for Local Officials and Land Use Planners

on

“Conservation Subdivisions”

The Adirondack Park Agency welcomes Randal Arendt on September 24, 2008. Mr. Arendt will be providing an open training session for local officials and land use planners. Randal Arendt is a renowned landscape planner, site designer, author, lecturer and an advocate of “Conservation Planning” (his bio is attached - fyi¹). He will discuss key elements of design and approval for subdivisions that incorporate “conservation principles” with a specific focus on Adirondack Park issues.

We are very pleased to have this opportunity for Mr. Arendt to share his expertise and experiences with community leaders in the Park². Please join us on:

Wednesday Evening, September 24, 2008

7 to 9 PM

Adirondack Park Agency Headquarters

Ray Brook, NY

Pre-registration: The program is available to all local officials and interested land use planners. There is no charge for the training session however seating is limited. To ensure adequate arrangements and to prepare attendee training certificates, pre-registration is encouraged by calling the Adirondack Park Agency at: 518-891-4050 ext. 506, attention to Robyn Burgess, Local Services Program.

Please share the information with town/village board members, and other community members interested in land use planning.

Hope to see you there,

Brian Grisi

APA, Local Planning Assistance Specialist

¹ See the attached info sheet on Randal Arendt with links to additional information on the back of this page.

² Funding for the program was made available by a grant from the Governor's Office of Employee Relations.